2017 APPLICATION FOR ESC MEMBERSHIP

Member benefits include access to electronic and paper versions of new editions of The Canadian Entomologist (TCE), electronic access to TCE from the 1860s to the present, reduced registration fees for the ESC's Joint Annual Meeting, reduced charges for the purchase of Memoirs, and access to ESC awards, and student competitions. The ESC's Bulletin is also available free online (www.esc-sec.ca/bulletin.php). Most importantly, by joining the ESC you are helping to support the advancement of entomology in Canada.

New membership applications and membership renewal can be completed and paid either online or on paper. For those who prefer to renew on paper, please complete this form by selecting a membership category from the table, filling in the rest of the form and sending it to the Entomological Society of Canada office by mail (with cheque or money order) or by email or fax (with credit card information).

In applying for, or renewing, membership under the categories of student, early professional or emeritus, I confirm that one of the conditions listed below the table applies to me.

ESC Scholarship Fund can now accept donations of capital property

In addition to ESC accepting cash donations to its Scholarship Fund, the Fund is now set up to accept in-kind donations of capital property (such as securities). Simply put, on top of the normal tax credit from the Canada Revenue Agency, the donor also benefits in not having to pay capital gains tax on donated capital property. (It should be noted the foregoing information is not tax advice and ESC encourages potential donors to consult a qualified tax advisor to identify income tax considerations that are specific to their situation.) For more information please feel free to contact the ESC Treasurer at: christopher.p.dufault(at)gmail.com
